30 November 2017 – Gwen Bevers and Joost van Riel gave a webinar on the new company law

At the beginning of 2018 the government is launching a draft Companies and Associations Code. The first draft texts promise nothing less than a revolution for our company law.

During a live webinar, Gwen Bevers and Joost van Riel gave a sneak preview of this new company law and focused on a number of questions that are already being posed in practice, such as:

the timing for the new Code,
the possible end of the “professional” CVBA’s, the fate of share capital as a result of the introduction of a capital-free BV, and the end of the THV as a separate legal form

You can find more information on our “New company law” web page, and you can (re)watch the webinar here.
